6. In your opinion, what is the most important aspect to building a college going culture at your school?

Making kids aware of the resources and importance of post secondary training.; Recognizing who is college level.; Promoting the benefits of college daily.; The most important aspect to building a college-going culture at my school is to make students aware of the impact that a college education would have on their lives economically, socially and intrinsically.; Rigorous curriculum, holding students accountable for their academics, behavior ; I feel that in order to have a strong college- going culture at our school we have to start " the college talk" at least by 7th grade and provide them with excitement, knowledge and motivation regarding their upcoming college education and experiences. ; high Expectations should be the standard; High expectations ; talking with them about their future in being successful. Getting a good education to be able to support their families . ; Translating pertinent information regarding college to students and parents in a way that they can understand what their options are.; Teachers discussions with students.; Helping students realize college can be more than a four year institution.

7. How have your beliefs about what is most important to building a college-going culture at your school changed?

Yes; I believe that college is not for everyone.; No; I am disappointed at the number of students, over the years, who just don't care or just don't give college a thought until it's almost too late.; College is not for everyone, some students need to look at trade schools or vocational schools. I do believe further education is needed.; I talk to all our students about " when you graduate from here and go to college". I present all of them with the thought that they are going to college. I do the PEP's with 8th graders and review PEP's with 9-12th graders each year as well as the progress towards graduation.; Not at all; More parents are getting involved in their childrens education.; Not all students will go to college. Some will pursue vocational training or may go directly into the job force and that is ok;; Over the last six years, the awareness of how easy it can be to attend college with resources has increased tremendously.

8. Also, please explain what you see as your role in building a college going culture at your school?

GEAR UP mentor. Educate all students about available resources. I have been put into a larger role of promoting college and career awareness.; NA; Accurately matching students with the appropriate schools and programs after graduation.; My role could be talking to students about the value of going to college and how much the effort they put into their schooling now will impact their choices of colleges later.; College preparation are discussed more now than in the past.; I feel it is my responsibility to present the expectation, culture and talk of college bound to all of our students. ; I am new at this school but it seems gear up is a positive part of the school culture. ;Kids are asking more questions than before. No my role hasn't changed much.; Being a go-to resource for students who have questions/concerns about their future college plans.; Encouraging students to pursue a college degree.; I have been the site coordinator for the length of the grant. I now have as many students seeking help from me as the counselor has.

14. What do you feel is the most significant factor that prevents students from setting postsecondary goals?

Setting realistic achievable goals.; Lack of family support.; Not being willing to take the time to do it.; Parental lack of encouragement.; Family beliefs and community culture; Encouragement and they do not see the need to plan early. For example -- do not wait till your senior year to try to get their grades up for college material. ; students are unsure where to begin and often have no guidance at home. The school is the only support they receive ; Lack of financial support; Community culture/welfare; The fear of college expenses.

15. What do you feel is the most significant factor that prevents students from achieving their postsecondary goals?

Not understanding all of the available resources.; Laziness; No selecting schools that match their goals.; Parental lack of encouragement.; Money; Commitment to the cause-- keeping their grades up and following through with expectations.; No family support; Lack of financial support; Support from home.

16. Please use this space for additional comments, questions, or concerns:

A number of students would do well in the trade industries (schools). I hate to see them fall through the cracks. Not everyone is meant to be in college.; ; Thank you for the opportunity to be a part of GEAR UP-- We love it!!!;
