FINANCIAL AID WORKSHOP TOOLKIT

Your Guide to Planning, Promoting, and Hosting a Successful Financial Aid Workshop

On behalf of the West Virginia Higher Education Policy Commission and College for West Virginia, thank you for agreeing to host a financial aid workshop at your school or organization!

Developing a plan to pay for college is a huge step for students and families. And navigating the financial aid process can be unfamiliar territory — particularly for first-generation students.

To guide families through this process, you may want to consider hosting multiple workshops or promoting various opportunities to learn more about financial aid. The following pages of this guide outline the types of workshops you may want to consider. Additionally, it can be helpful to share the following resources with families:

- CFWV.com: CFWV.com is home to the state's free resources for planning, applying, and paying for college.
- StudentAid.gov: The Office of Federal Student Aid's website, studentaid.gov, is a great resource for families to learn about federal financial aid programs, including the Pell Grant and Federal Direct Student Loans. You may also want to provide students and families with brochures and materials about these programs. You can order and download these materials for free by visiting financialaidtoolkit.ed.gov/tk/.

We sincerely appreciate all of the effort and time that you have committed to make this event a success. Your involvement will help West Virginia's students and families learn more about their options for college and pursue the dream of completing postsecondary education. Please do not hesitate to contact our office if you have any questions!

P.S. All materials in this kit may be downloaded at cfwv.com/cfwv-connect/.

CONTENTS

To help you put together a successful event, we've created several templates and guides to assist you in promoting your workshop. The following materials are included in this guide:

- 1. Types of financial aid workshops: Because building a plan to pay for college can be a major undertaking for students and families, it is important to offer or direct students to multiple financial aid workshops. This guide outlines the types of assistance students need.
- 2. Finding financial aid experts and resources: There are a wide variety of experts and resources to help you offer financial aid guidance to your students and their families. This list outlines ways to find them.
- 3. Planning timeline: The planning timeline can help you manage the work involved in preparing for your financial aid workshop.
- 4. Postcards: These are available in full-color or black and white. Copies are included in this kit, so that you can write in details and make copies, or you can download a pdf version and type your information within the pdf's form fields. The postcards should be printed double-sided and sliced in half, to create two postcards per 8.5x11" sheet.
- 5. Flyers: These are available in black and white only. A copy is included in this guide so that you can write in details and make copies, or you can download a pdf version and type your information within the pdf's form fields.
- 6. Community announcement template and news release template: These are available within this kit, or you can download copies for editing in Microsoft Word. The community announcement template is shorter than the news release template, and is designed for use as a school PA announcement or for school all-call systems. The news release can be sent to local media outlets, such as newspapers or radio stations.
- 7. Social media tools and scripts: This kit includes Facebook banners you can share in your newsfeed to help draw attention to your workshop. It also includes sample posts to help you promote your workshop and financial aid awareness.
- 8. Website banner ads: These are available in two sizes, so that you can include an advertisement for your event on your school's website. Ask your IT staff to create a webpage with details about your event. Then, place the images we've provided as ads on the homepage, and link to your new event page. You can use the community announcement template to create content for the event information page.
- 9. Quick facts: Financial aid staff presenting at your event will likely bring handouts for students and parents. However, you may want to print extra copies of these, or keep them for later.

TYPES OF FINANCIAL AID WORKSHOPS

Providing comprehensive support for your students

To help students and families build their awareness of financial aid, it is important to consider financial aid planning as a form of financial literacy. Applying for aid is only one step in the process of developing a plan to pay for college. For many students and families, — especially first-generation college students — the concepts surrounding financial aid seem foreign. These families need resources and assistance to guide them step-by-step.

Here are some types of workshops you might consider hosting. If you do not have the resources or time to host all of these on your own, you may want to reach out to financial aid experts at the state's colleges and universities. They often host regional financial aid workshops or are willing to provide extra assistance.

- Intro to Financial Aid (or Financial Aid 101): An introduction to financial aid workshop will cover the broad concepts surrounding financial aid. Topics to include are...
  - Types of financial aid (the difference between scholarships, grants, loans, etc.)
  - Sources of financial aid (federal, state, institutional, private, etc.)
  - Common financial aid terms (FAFSA, deferment, SAI, etc.)
  - Calculating the cost of college
  - Smart borrowing and understanding college loans
- State and Federal Financial Aid Programs: Once families understand the basics of calculating college costs and finding financial aid, you can begin to discuss financial aid programs. These types of workshops should focus on...
  - State programs (Promise Scholarship; WV Higher Education Grant; WV Engineering, Science and Technology Scholarship; WV Invests Grant, etc.)
  - Federal programs (Pell Grant, Work Study, Federal Direct Loans, etc.)
  - Institutional scholarships (how to find them)
  - Private scholarships (how to find them)
- FAFSA Completion: FAFSA completion workshops should focus on guiding families step-by-step through completing the FAFSA. If possible, it is a good idea to set up computer labs to allow families to complete the FAFSA during the workshop. If that is not possible, you can work through the FAFSA worksheet, so that they will have the information ready to complete online on their own.
- Financial Aid Follow-Up: The financial aid process doesn't end with submitting the FAFSA and other application forms. Students and families often need assistance understanding their financial aid award letters, navigating payment and deposit deadlines, and making smart decisions about student loans. It can be useful to work with college or university experts to offer financial aid "follow-up" workshops in the late spring. You'll likely want to work closely with college representatives to host this sort of workshop.

- Division of Financial Aid Webinars: The Division of Financial Aid offers a host of live and pre-recorded webinars on state aid and completing the FAFSA.

FINANCIAL AID EXPERTS

The State financial aid office and CFWV team maintain a list of financial aid experts from across the state who can provide financial aid workshops. 2. Invite your Facebook friends to like CFWV.
  - Go to CFWV's Facebook page.
  - Look for the box on the right side of the page, right below our profile header that says "invite your friends to like this page."
  - Invite parents and students you think could benefit from our updates!
3. Share and repost CFWV's status messages. Here are some tips:

"Liking" a Facebook or Instagram post helps more people see the post—and sharing on Facebook helps even more. So it's great to do both. Unlike "liking" on Facebook and Instagram, "favoriting" on X really doesn't do much except save the post for you to refer back to later. The best way to promote a post on X is to repost it!

It can also help to add your own note to the post - because chances are, your followers will pay more attention to it then. Here's an example:

Original CFWV Post on X: College Application and Exploration Week is just 2 weeks away! Get free help filing the FAFSA. Details: <link>

Potential Repost: I'm volunteering at RHS! RT @CFWV College Application and Exploration Week is just 2 weeks away! Get free help filing the FAFSA. Details: <link>

In the example above, "I'm volunteering at RHS!" is your personal note. "RT @CFWV" indicates the content to follow is a repost and gives the original source (CFWV).

4. Use hashtags! Hashtags alert people that your posts are referring to a shared experience or something big that is going on in their community. Here are some relevant hashtags:
  - #FAFSA
  - #CollegeBoundWV
5. Mention @CFWV and @FAFSA! Promote these resources to your X followers by mentioning us and Federal Student Aid (@FAFSA) in your tweets! Here's an example post:

Example: Need help finding financial aid? Check out @CFWV and @FAFSA!
